Thanks Chad.

Since we spoke I am fully aware of the situation and the additional cost. It's unfortunate that the instrument gave you troubles but obviously it was important to have it running for your return. If there are any questions regarding this by Weston management, please let me know.

Hi Eric –

I just wanted to confirm with you the changes that occurred with my schedule change due to repairing the HPGe:

1. I will be mobilizing home on 5/27/17 and returning on 5/31/2017.
2. There will be an additional hotel/per diem/rental car day.
3. Because I had to change my flights, the airline charged penalties totaling $582.91.

4. These charges will be split between the NFB and HTC assessment TDDs.

On the bright side, the HPGe is up and running again. I would have not had much of a relaxing break if I did not know that the HPGe would be operational or not. I am currently running samples. Please get back with me if you have any questions or concerns. Have a great long weekend and I will be in touch.

Thank You

Chad
